Mortgage Loans NATHAN COLE
Ill. Nat'l Bank Bldg.
They tell a tale droll, of a credulous soul
Who thought to provide for his wife,
Where a man mostly chin, and original sin,
Wrote him up in the "Pawnbrokers' Life."
'Twixt Kleinschmidt, the grocer, and he ought to know, sir,
The difference 'twixt sugar and sand.
But they sold him pure dirt, will assess for his hirt
When they've got all his money and land.
Still he swears by their tricks, thinks twice two are six
And that something from nothing may grow,
But will find when he's old, that he's out in the cold
Where the "new blood" ceases to flow.
Then Kleinschmidt the grocer, will turn up his toes, sir,
And go where all rank suckers go.
And the 'Pawnbrokers' Life,' may present Kleinschmidt's wife
With a basket of beautiful snow.
In insurance, as in other things, the best is the cheapest. Talk
